

SAVES TRAIN IN EXCITING RUN

Engineer Outwits Robbers at Risk of Passengers' Lives Against Orders.

SETS FULL STEAM

Was Made Suspicious by the Way in Which the Lantern Was Swung by the Would-Be Thieves.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.)

Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 25.—Breaking ironclad rules of a railroad Engineer G. W. Boss ran a train load of excursionists by a danger signal set dead against him and is believed to have frustrated a gang of hold-up men. The decision to risk the lives of his human freight was made in the fraction of a second because the trained eye of the railroad man recognized in the awkward swing of a lantern the work of a novice. Almost before the engineer had reached his conclusion the throttle was pulled wide open and the train sped by Plummer's ledge, in lonely spot a mile north of Whittins Station on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

Disobeys Orders.

Four cars full of passengers unconscious of peril met and avoided were landed safely in Providence, and the engineer, who had assumed an awful responsibility, repaired to the office of Superintendent A. R. Whaley to report that he had matched his judgment against the orders of the road, and won.

That there was a deliberate attempt by ten men to hold up the train, there is little doubt. The matter was suppressed until midnight, when Deputy Sheriff Bacon was called into the case by Superintendent Whaley, and, fully armed, took his place by the side of the engineer and accompanied the train from Worcester to Providence. Meantime the police officials are scouring this section of the state in an effort to locate the gang described by the engineer.

Engineman Sees Danger.

The boat train drew out of Worcester at 6:10 o'clock p. m., and was due in Providence at 7:25 o'clock. It had reached a point within an eighth of a mile of Plummer's ledge, where Engineer Boss saw a green signal light, indicating a clear track. Suddenly the light changed to red and the engineer closed the throttle and set the air brakes. As he did so a lantern was swung across the track, but not in the easy manner acquired by experienced trainmen, and it flashed across Boss' mind that the man who gave the signal was not stopping the train for any good purpose. For a second he hesitated, balancing in his mind the chances of wrecking his train if he went on and the probability of its passengers being robbed and perhaps killed if he brought it to a standstill. As far as he could see an unobstructed track lay before him.

Rushes by Robbers.

Another second and his mind was made up and he rushed the train past the danger signal. Leaning out of his cab, Engineer Boss saw the man with the lantern jump from the track, two other men standing on the ladder holding the stationary light and tampering with the signal, while seven other men were lined up along the road bed.

Immediately on reaching Providence he reported the matter to Superintendent Whaley, who at once started an investigation of all the circumstances, and later gave Deputy Sheriff Bacon charge of the case.

The boat train is followed a few minutes later by an express and mail train, and it is thought that the attempt was perhaps directed at the latter, which was confused with the boat train.

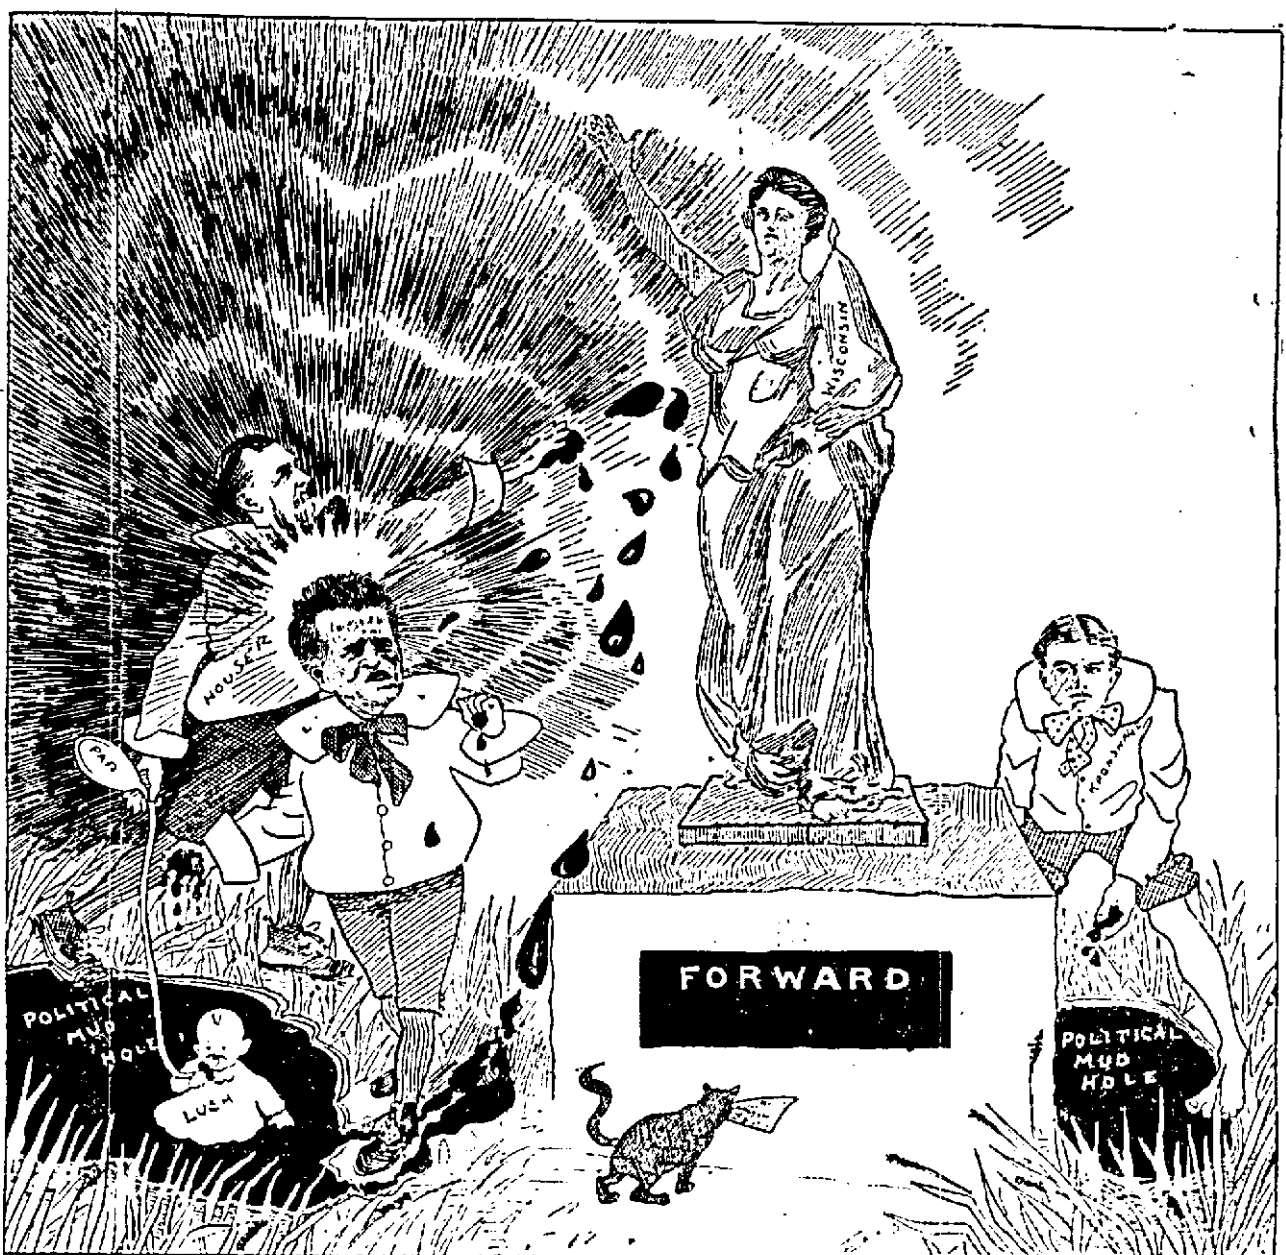

The recent lawlessness in this section, including the recent successful holdup of the paymaster of the Saranac mills, is believed to have incited dangerous characters to this attempt.

ILL USED IN BELOIT JAIL

Colored Man Charged with Assault, Says He Was Kicked and Beaten in His Cell.

Louis Jerome Smith, the colored man who was brought to this city from Beloit yesterday by Chief Scheibel, on the charge of assaulting George Fosha with a knife Thursday night, denies that he used any weapon whatever. It appears that he only injury sustained by Fosha was a cut in one of his legs and Smith says that this was probably done in the melee that ensued after the fight started. He claims he was badly beaten by the police after he was arrested.

"YOUR MUD WON'T STICK GOVERNOR LA FOLLETTE"

WILL PRAY FOR MACEDONIA, SUNDAY

All Bulgaria Will Be in Mourning for Day of Fast and Prayer for the Suffering Macedonians; and Great Celebrations for the Aid of Macedonian Arms Will Be Asked For--England

Now Makes a Statement.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.) Sofia, Sept. 26.—All Bulgaria will be in mourning tomorrow. The towns throughout the country are today being draped in black in preparation of the celebration of tomorrow, as this day has been set aside as a day of prayer and intercession for Macedonia. The letter of the British premier in which he leaves everything to Austria and Russia for the restoring of peace in the Balkans has caused increased gloom throughout all the section where Turkish rule touches. It is generally conceded that Bulgaria has nothing to hope for in the matter of aid from any of the civilized powers of Europe.

The Jingo element has, however, new impetus for war talk against Turkey. Tales of increasing suffering on the parts of the inhabitants of the devastated regions continue to come in. The cruelties of the Turkish soldiers has been increasing rather than diminishing. The reports of the sufferers dying from starvation is also reported and inflames the mind of those who want war. It is said that the Turkish troops are driven to desperation by want of proper food and nourishment and that they are taking out their revenge on the Macedonians who are living in their paths.

The work of the men evidently was well planned and carried out carefully. A score of sticks of dynamite must have been imbedded beneath the culvert. Leading from the dynamite directly in the center of the highway was sixty feet of fine copper wire carefully insulated. This wire connected with the battery found in the trees. Just prior to the approach of Ferguson and Martin several vehicles had passed over the dynamite, but the occupants were not molested.

SIX MORE INDICTMENTS IN THE POSTAL SCANDAL

Grand Jury Will Soon Complete Its Work and Prosecutions Will Be Taken Up.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Six more indictments will be found by the federal grand jury against persons involved in the postal scandals not later than Oct. 5. This will complete the postal investigation, and in a short time prosecutions will begin. Postmaster General Payne returned from his vacation and spent nearly the whole day in conference with Assistant Postmaster General Bristow and Assistant Attorney General Robb, informing himself of the developments in the postal scandals since he left Washington several weeks ago.

Upon the president's return Mr. Payne will see the chief executive, and the situation regarding the scandals—past, present and future—will be discussed. Mr. Payne is greatly improved in health, and asserted he is prepared to remain at his post "as long as school keeps." In discussing the frauds and indictments Mr. Payne said:

"The investigation may be considered as practically concluded when the federal grand jury of the District of Columbia, which is now in session, finishes its work and brings in a number of additional indictments. As the grand jury will adjourn Oct. 5, it is reasonable to suppose these expected indictments—the final work of that federal body—will not be delayed. There are six more indictments to be brought in, not all of which, however, are against persons not already indicted by the grand jurors in Washington and New York."

Beloit Printer Arrested: Deputy Sheriff Scheibel of Beloit brought two prisoners to the county jail this morning. One of them was a printer by the name of John Foster who is to serve a sentence of five days for drunkenness. The other was Axel Johnson who is to have his hearing on the charge of abandonment on Sept. 26.

RETURNS WITH STOLEN HORSE

Lynn Whaley, who went to Libertyville, Ill., to recover the horse, delivery wagon and harness that were stolen from his father in April, returned last night. He left the outfit at Emerald Grove. The man in whose possession the rig was found said that he bought it for $50 from an old bewhiskered spectacle peddler who was on his way to Chicago two days after the theft was committed. Some hesitancy was shown in giving up the stolen articles, as the Libertyville man thought he ought to have a reward.

Frank Saddler Sentenced: In municipal court this morning Frank Saddler was given a thirty-day sentence on the charge of being a common drunkard. Saddler is an old offender. He is a first class harness maker, but refuses to work. His family are left to suffer in consequence.

THE PASSING OF "BOHEMIAN JOE"

Well-Known Character of Beloit Died at the County House Last Night.

"Bohemian Joe," an old-time landmark of Beloit, died at the county house last night. Joe came to Beloit twenty years ago. He became famous as a cook and many summer parties of Beloit and Janesville people can testify to his skill. He understood little of American ways and the language but by the performance of duty blindly obeyed whoever employed him. Once set at a task mankind and the elements could never swerve him from his post. He was taken to the county house only a few days ago and his death resulted from a complication of diseases.

LAD KILLS HIS COUSIN IN DUEL WITH PISTOLS

Victim of Accident Exonerates His Playmate From Blame, Declaring He Could Not Help It.

New York, Sept. 26.—In a mock duel with revolvers Russell Smith, 13 years old, received a fatal wound at the hands of his cousin, James Rodgers, 15 years old, of 264 Fifty-third street, Brooklyn. But even in the face of death the little victim was endowed with the courage of the soldier he aspired to be.

"It was an accident; Jimmy couldn't help it," was all the little victim would say to the coroner when he went to the hospital to get his ante-mortem statement. "I'm not much hurt, anyway," he added, although the surgeons had told the coroner that the wound was a mortal one and that the boy could not live only a few hours at most.

The Rodgers boy is employed by a cable company in Manhattan and works at night. He did not reach home until 3:30 in the morning and found then that his little cousin had come over from Keyport, N. J., to pay him a short visit. They immediately began skylarking about the room and soon awoke Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers, who slept in an adjoining room.

The precise details of the shooting have not been made clear, but the boys confess that they had a sort of mock duel, when the revolver held by the Rodgers lad was discharged, the bullet striking Russell in the abdomen and passing through and lodging in the muscles of the back.

DYNAMITE IS NEW METHOD

Robbers Set Off a Big Cartridge by Means of a Battery Attachment.

MAKE A RICH HAUL

Contractor Killed and Book-keeper Badly Maimed on Their Way to Pay Men.

Washington, Pa., Sept. 26.—Samuel T. Ferguson of the Ferguson Construction company of Pittsburgh was killed instantly, and his bookkeeper, Charles L. Martin, 36 years old, of Cincinnati, was injured fatally by an explosion of dynamite placed in the road by two men for the purpose of robbery.

The crime was committed in broad daylight, the dynamite being exploded by an electric battery. Mrs. Ferguson, widow of the contractor, is in a serious condition as a result of the tragedy.

The robbers secured about $3,600. The murder and robbery took place near the village of West Middletown, fifteen miles from here. Two suspects are under arrest in the camp of the construction company, but farmers believe they have one of them at bay in an abandoned coal mine about a mile and a half northeast of West Middletown.

Use Electric Battery.

The scene of the crime is a ravine flanked on one side by a clump of small trees and on the other by a sloping field. The dynamite in the middle of the road was connected by means of a small insulated copper wire to a battery in the trees.

Ferguson and Martin came to Washington en route to camp to pay their men. They placed the money, $3,600, in a satchel, which they lodged in a buggy drawn by two horses. Both men were armed.

Evidently as the vehicle containing Ferguson and Martin stepped on a small culvert the highwaymen pushed the button and the explosive was set off, the money was taken, and the robbers escaped.

Wait for Victims.

The work of the men evidently was well planned and carried out carefully. A score of sticks of dynamite must have been imbedded beneath the culvert. Leading from the dynamite directly in the center of the highway was sixty feet of fine copper wire carefully insulated. This wire connected with the battery found in the trees. Just prior to the approach of Ferguson and Martin several vehicles had passed over the dynamite, but the occupants were not molested.

Besides the battery in the bushes was a double-barrel shotgun, loaded.

Two Are Arrested.

Two men who had been employed at the camp at various times and discharged repeatedly came into camp and were arrested by Camp Boss Isaac Smith. Smith believes he has the guilty men, but will not divulge their names until they are turned over to the proper authorities. For fear of lynching Smith will keep his prisoners heavily guarded.

In an abandoned coal mine on the farm of John Patterson, about a quarter of a mile from the scene of the killing, fresh foot tracks were discovered leading into the mine, and the farmers believe they have one of the men located inside.

JUDGE ORDER FATHER TO WHIP GIRL IN COURT

Parent Takes Child Across His Knee and Administers Six Strokes With Cat-o-nine-Tails.

New York, Sept. 26.—Katie Kantor, aged 9 years old, was publicly whipped by her father in the police court at Bayonne, N. J. By order of Recorder Hyman Lazarus Kantor took his girl across his knee and gave her half a dozen lashes with a cat-o-nine-tails. Fifty men and women looked on while the girl was being punished. The girl confessed to stealing eggs and provisions and had led her small companions to steal, and Recorder Lazarus, believing that the rod is most deterrent when administered before spectators, ordered this punishment. Several boys have been thrashed in his courtroom. Kantor drew from his pocket the domestic knout, a leather handle with nine tails attached to it, and struck six blows. "That'll do," said the recorder. "Now, Katie, go home and be good."

The Army at Whitewater: The Salvation Army held a successful meeting at Whitewater last night. They will go to Fort Atkinson Monday night. Capt. Hilborn, formerly of the Marinette post but now divisional assistant under Major Glenn at Milwaukee, is in the city today.

ANCIENTS GAVE TO THE DEITIES

SET ASIDE PART OF ALL WAR PROFITS

THE GREEKS BUILT TEMPLES

Returning Warriors Donated Money for the Use of Worship to the Gods.

This week's letter from the pen of Rev. Dr. Landell takes up the Graeco Persian period of ancient history and describes the exacting of the Tenth as recorded by the ancient historians. The letter follows: "We now come to the period of the Graeco Persian wars. In the early years of which flourished Herodotus, 'the father of history'. He traveled widely, and relates the customs of many nations. Of the Phocians he records, that after their victory over the Thessalians, 'when all the booty had been brought together, a tenth of the whole was set apart for the Delphian god; and hence was made the golden tripod which stands on the bronze serpent with three heads, quite close to the altar. Portions were also set apart for the god of Olympia, and of the Isthmus; from which were made, in the one case, a bronze Jupiter ten cubits high; and in the other, a bronze Neptune of seven cubits,' etc.

Herodotus Opinion.
The same writer tells of a small people on the island of Samos, in the Aegean sea, one of whose ships, on her return voyage made an unusually large profit; whereupon, 'from the tenth part of their gains (estimated in all, at from £14,000 to £15,000), amounting to six talents (say £1400), the Samians made a brazen vessel, in shape like an Argo wine-bowl, adorned with the heads of griffins standing out in high relief. This bowl, supported by three kneeling colossal figures in bronze, of the height of seven cubits, was placed as an offering in the temple of Juno at Samos.

Women of Thracia.
Another case is related by Herodotus of a woman of Thracia, a harlot named Rhodope, who sent a tenth of her gains, in the form of spoils for the sacrifices (or as Dr. Rouse suggests, iron bars or metal rods which once passed current as money), to the temple of Apollo at Delphi. That this was not unusual seems to be indicated by another case of a woman of the same class, who in an old Greek poem, vowed to offer the tenth of all her gain to Venna. Yet another instance of tithe-giving from Herodotus, is that of the Siphnians, who, on their island in the Aegean, had gold and silver mines, from which out of the tithe of their gains, they equipped a treasury at Delphi equal to the richest there. It is worthy of note, that the Greek geographer Pausanias, who flourished in the latter half of the second century, A. D., and who saw the Siphnian treasury, tells us that the sea had submerged the mines because the islanders had ceased their tithe.

Xenophon.
Still more remarkable, however, was the religious mindedness of Xenophon, and his ten thousand retreating Greeks, who, as related in the Anabasis, reserved a tenth of the money they got upon their march by the sale of captives, and who, by the hands of their captains, consecrated the tithe to Apollo, and to Diana. With the portion designed for Diana, Xenophon afterwards purchased some land, on the road from Lacedaemon to Olympia. He built also, with the consecrated money, an altar and a temple, and continued afterwards to make a sacrifice every year, always receiving tenth of the produce from the land. Also the people of the town and neighborhood took part in the festival, and were feasted. And near the temple stood a pillar, bearing this inscription:

Sacred to Diana.
"This ground is sacred to Diana. He that possesses and reaps the fruit of it is to offer every year the tenth of its produce, and to keep the temple in repair from the residue. If anyone fails to perform these conditions, the goddess will take notice of his neglect." So here was a temple endowed with tithes, for the benefit of priests, and of people, and for repairs.

Pliny's Word.
Nor must we forget, before leaving the period of the Graeco-Persian wars, how Pliny records of Alexander the Great, that having conquered the countries of sweet odours and frankincense, that monarch sent a whole ship load thereof to Leonides in Greece, that he might burn it bountifully unto the gods. NOTED NEW YORK SHAKESPERIAN

Will Appear in Janesville Next Month at the Congregational Church.

Yale university, which is called the center of learning, is noted for the wonderful opportunities given its students to hear famous men and women on the lecture platform. No orator is too high priced not to be invited to deliver his message, if he is thought worthy. Thus is given the opportunity of culture and broadening the mind by hearing the world's great specialists.

One of these men is Marshall Darrach, of New York, who has opened the Yale university lecture course for several years with Shakespearian readings, and who is heard ordinarily only in the largest cities. Through a fortunate chain of circumstances, this great reader was induced to consent to give three readings in this city, sometime during the coming month. One night will be given "The Merchant of Venice," followed a week or so later by "Julius Caesar," concluding with "Twelfth Night" a week or ten days after the second reading. Mr. Darrach is said never to use a book, manuscript, or memorandum during his entertainments.

By guaranteeing a certain fixed amount, the Shakespeare club have made it possible that a ticket for the entire series will cost but one dollar. Shakespeare, the greatest English writer of any time, whose wonderful knowledge of law, astronomy, war, history, literature, and the sciences in general, which are so fascinatingly told in these plays, will make it worth many dollars to any person to be in attendance.

If Janesville people patronize this entertainment, and we believe they will, efforts will be made in the future to secure other speakers of equal calibre and fame. This is not a money making scheme, as no one in Janesville will be benefited financially. If a profit is made, it will apply on the next attraction. If a loss, the club will stand it.

Until Oct. 1 round trip rates will be twice the cut rate—$16.

ANOTHER LETTER ON THE JAPANESE

C. V. HIBBARD WRITES OF THE SUMMER CONFERENCE.

THEY ARE INTERESTING PEOPLE

The Teachers Are Very Enthusiastic in Their Work, and Help the Missionaries.

On Thursday we published a letter from Mr. C. V. Hibbard on his climb up to the top of the highest Japanese volcanoes. His description of the night on the mountain top, the beauty of the stars and the magnificence of the sun rise was so perfect that the reader could almost imagine that they themselves had been upon the very mountain and had seen those very sights described. Today we present a letter of a different type from Mr. Hibbard. Formerly he and his wife have described their own home life or the funny things they have found confronting them on that far off shore of Japan. This letter describes a meeting of the foreign section of the Japanese Summer schools. The letter follows:

The Letter.
"The foreign section of the Japanese Summer school differs somewhat in temper and purpose from the American Student Summer conference. A majority of the men who gathered at Arima in July were teachers in government schools. All young men and for the most part recent graduates from our American colleges they showed no whit less enthusiasm than in their student days and coming from isolated posts in the interior the close fellowship of the conference was doubly welcome.

Practical Nature.
From the opening day the practical nature of the discussions on teaching and the deep earnestness in the minds of the men concerning the Christian work which it is given them to do was made clearly manifest. A majority of the men who had been on the old for a year or more felt that they had been used of God in bringing men to Christ and all had been used in breaking down unfounded prejudice against Christianity. Not a man but that was using the influence accruing from his position in the cause of Christianity.

Spiritual Intensity.
As the days slipped by and the conference drew near its close the spiritual intensity increased and the consequent heart searching brought home to each one the imperative demand for closer fellowship with Jesus Christ in order to meet the insidious and ever present temptations of an isolated life in a community without the restraints of a Christian public sentiment.

The Missionaries.
The suggestive and practical experience of the missionaries at the conference was of great value and was generally appreciated. A word of encouragement from one of these really expressed the underlying thought in the minds of all: viz. The volunteer Christian work of Christian laymen, teachers and others, similarly situated is the capstone of the missionary enterprise and gives assurance of the early triumph of Christianity in Japan. CHICAGO BEGINS ITS CELEBRATION

Indians Arrived This Morning for the Jubilee Celebration in the Windy City.

More than 150 Indians swooped down on Chicago from the northwest reserves this morning and beautiful Lincoln park has been converted into an Indian village. The braves will smoke, dance and scalp. The squaws will toil and slave and the papoose will squall.

The women who are interested in equal suffrage and the elevation of their sex will have an excellent opportunity for missionary work during the stay of the Indians, for the squaws will do all of the work. Their duties began immediately after their arrival at the park. They constructed, the brush wigwams and the bark huts and then gathered the wood and prepared the food for the braves. The Indians came to attend the centennial and they arrived at 9 a. m. at the North-Western depot.

Tribes Represented
The following are the tribes that are represented and the names of the chiefs: Winnebago, Nodjinkah; Chippewa, Wagon-bash (Chicago); Potawatomi, Pockagon; Sac and Fox, Pushpa-ta-neekah; Menominee, Neopeta; Ottawa, Black Bird.

It is intended to make their stay just as pleasant as possible, and to make it real the Indians will indulge in many of their old pastimes. A block fort has already been erected on the baseball grounds at the park and the Indians will attack this daily. They will be armed with tomahawks and bows and arrows and it is expected that the fights will be lively.

It is expected that Neopeta may cause some trouble. He is reported to have a violent temper and if he should lose it in the scrimmage a bit of realism that is not down on the programme may result.

A Trading Post
Another feature will be a trading post. The Indians will bring furs and small fur animals with them and also a large supply of bead work. The braves will trade as in the olden days, but no freshwater will be allowed on the grounds and it will be impossible to cheat poor Lo into trading a $100 fur for a drink of levee whiskey.

The Indians have taken care to be in good form for the dances and they will offer the squaw dance, green corn dance, snake dance, brave man dance, buffalo dance, war dance and scalp dance. There will be canoe portaging, canoe racing, canoe tilting, exhibition of war club and tomahawk exercises, bow and arrow shooting, gambling games, taking down and erecting wigwams by the squaws, exhibition of lacrosse playing, council meeting, with address by the chiefs, and presentation of the friendship drum.

COMMISSION IN NEED OF FUNDS

World's Fair Commission Report That Isaac Stephenson Has Offered $2,000 Conditionally.

The Wisconsin world's fair commission has abandoned the plan for getting out a Wisconsin souvenir book for the fair and formal announcement to this effect will probably be made at the session of the world's fair board to be held today in Milwaukee. It is said the board members have decided the expense of the book would more than equal the results which would accrue to the state from its publication.

It is also said that the publication of the political jockeying which occurred over the attempt to get the contract for the book has had a good deal to do with the decision not to issue the publication.

The most important matter which will be passed upon at the session of the board today will be the question as to whether the subscriptions of private citizens shall be asked for the aid of the Wisconsin exhibit at the St. Louis fair. In the opinion of some of the commissioners, it is said, the appropriation which has been made by the state will be utterly inadequate to give Wisconsin such an exhibit at the fair as is believed it should have.

Isaac Stephenson has already offered to make a subscription to the Wisconsin exhibit fund of $2,000 if 49 other citizens of the state will each make a similar subscription. The commissioners claim it would be hard to get 49 men in the state to make so large a subscription as $2,000, and if it is decided to ask outside aid for the Wisconsin exhibit it is likely that Mr. Stephenson will be asked to make his subscription unconditionally and as much money will be raised from other people as possible. A committee from the Milwaukee Merchants' & Manufacturers' association will probably confer with the board in regard to the subscription feature of the fair fund.

Grant Thomas, the new secretary of the board, has gone to Milwaukee to attend the meeting. It is possible that the headquarters of the commission will be taken from Milwaukee to Madison.

A NEW PAPER FOR LINE CITY

Will Be Published in the Interest of Labor—Official Organ of Trades Council.

Beloit is to have a new paper, "The Beloit Daily Journal." This was decided upon at a meeting of the stockholders of the Beloit Publishing company which was held in the Line City this week. The following board of directors were elected: W. S. Carpenter, F. A. Thornton, C. S. Buck, T. J. Lourin, R. I. Dowd, J. L. Fisher, J. E. Bruns, F. E. Barden, and Wm. Fitzgerald. Last Wednesday evening the following officers were elected: President, T. J. Lourin, vice-president, R. Dowd, secretary, C. S. Buck; manager, R. D. Egan and bonds were provided for the manager and treasurer. The policy of the paper will be in the interest of labor and the new sheet will be the official organ of the Trades Council. It will have eight pages, and six columns, and the force of employees will be the largest in the city. It is expected that the date of the first issue will be October 10.

Mrs. Charles B. Withington has left for an extended visit in the east. She expects to spend some time in New York, Vermont and Massachusetts.

BRIEFLETS

Elects Officers: The only mandolin club in the city has finally organized into a permanent society and adopted the musical title of "Echo Mandolin Club." At their last meeting Mr. Williams, the West Milwaukee street jeweler, was elected manager and (director) and Ben Marksman was made secretary and treasurer. The club now has an active membership of six, five mandolins and one guitar.

TABARD INN LIBRARY

Valuable Adjunct To the Public Library to Be Established in Janesville.

Almost all readers are familiar with the now world wide reputation of the Booklovers Library. Founded in 1900, the growth has been phenomenal. It is not only the largest corporation library in the world, with a cash capital of $2,250,000.00, but as a popular library and educational factor in American life, it is conceded to stand next in importance to the public press. The Tabard Inn, owned and managed by the Booklovers Library, is the newest thing in circulation libraries. The plan of operation, ensures the quickest, cleanest, and most trustworthy library service in the world. Bookcases (of a quaint Tabard Inn design) are placed in attractive shops all over the United States. Each book is boxed in a back silk cloth case, which keeps it fresh and clean. When soiled, they are sold and replaced with new books. The books are changed once a week or twice a month, from the central stations. A Tabard Inn book is the only identification necessary. To make an exchange the member places one book on the shelf, and takes down another, dropping a ticket in the slot of book case. The book can be carried to any part of the United States and can be exchanged at any station. Thousands of sub-stations have been opened in the eastern cities, and the west is being rapidly covered. Milwaukee, Waukesha, Madison, White-water, Beloit, Delavan, Elkhorn, Rockford and Racine now have stations.

Last year the Tabard Inn Library circulated over 6,000,000 books. This remarkable growth, is due to the many convenient features of the Tabard Inn service.

Each sub-station keep on hand 300 to 400 books. A member has the privilege of selecting from a library of over 100,000 volumes, containing all the new book Fiction, Travel History, Essays, Philosophy, Art, Music, Biography, etc., etc. Any book not found at the sub-station will be sent upon request.

A book can be retained by a member as long as desired, one day or six months.

There are no fines of fees of any kind while the book is out. The member has all of the privileges of ownership. Any new book you want, clean and fresh,—keep it as long as you wish,—carry it wherever you go—change it, any place you desire, and at any time.

The annual membership fee to the Tabard Inn, is $1.50, (the price of one new book), with an exchange fee of 4c for each exchange.

Those desiring membership in the Tabard Inn, may leave names with Smith's Pharmacy.

"Tell us a story, Brother," please, coaxed Freda.

"A true story," urged Sue.

"A fish story," pleaded Marjorie, and the trio seated themselves in the hammock as Orlie threw himself onto the grass to relate his deeds of daring.

"The other day while we fellows were standing on the river bridge, I saw a great long fish come to the top of the water near the pier. I slid down the guy wire with my eye on that fish and it never moved. Oh, it was a whopper!

"Just as I reached a place where I could drop my line, another bigger fish flopped up behind me and I was so scared, I most fell into the water myself and I did not know which fish to catch first.

"Then an electric car came along and both fishes darted under the water; I threw out my line quick, and soon had a bite; and I pulled and pulled and what do you think I caught?"

"A wale," shouted Freda.

"A turkey," guessed Sue.

"A minnie," whispered Marjorie.

"No; it was none of them; it was a cod-fish." With a prolonged shout and a spring Orlie was gone over the fence.

What did the girls say?

It was Sue's 4th birthday and together the girls had planned a doll party. It being French Susan's birthday also.

Orie was not invited; said he did not like girl parties anyhow.

The doll-house had been placed under the oak tree and each room arranged with care. Susan in her Paris lace gown received in the parlor. Cleo at the door ushered in the guests; in the kitchen M. Lee waited to serve refreshments; the guests looked their prettiest; Freda and Marjorie brought them in doll carriages; the reception was in its glory when from behind the lilac bush came a frightful "whoop!" and behold, peeping through the fence an Indian, indeed, with war paint on his face and a red blanket and in his hand was a tomahawk.

"Oh!" cried Marjorie and sleazng Mahitabel and J. J. she ran to the house followed by Sue dragging Doria and Maud—while Freda called who's afraid?—it's only Orie—come back.

"Sacred me 'most to def," said Sue. "I don't like you, Orie," said Marjorie. "Go away!" He went but soon returned with Ida, the maid carrying a basket of goodies and a birthday cake made by naughty Orie—with candles on it and a ring in it also a dish of suds and four clay pipes. Presently from out of pipes of peace, bubbles of sorrow floated on the air and vanished.

Somebody's papa left the hose on the lawn last night and this morning somebody's little girl found it and soon succeeded in making it work. There were spurts and streams and sprays and showers of water.

They sprinkled the white lilac bush and behold, a beautiful rainbow resting on the grass. When Marjorie ran to catch it, it was gone. Sue tried to drink while Freda held her hand over the nozzle and was surprised to find her clothes wet through and thorough.

They sprayed the daisies that bowed their heads in thankfulness, and the shy pansies which turned away their faces for fear; and, unthinking poured a stream of water through the lace curtains to the parlor window.

At once a voice from within. What did it say? What should have been done to papa M. E. B.

STRONG EVIDENCE OF FAITH

Peoples' Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy, Guarantee that Hyomei Will Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh in Janesville.

When one of the most reputable concerns in Janesville guarantees that a medicine will effect a cure or they will refund the money, it speaks volumes as to the merits of that remedy. It is in this way that that they are selling Hyomei, the treatment that has made so many remarkable cures of both acute and chronic catarrh in Janesville and Janesville and vicinity.

Hyomei is not a pill nor is it a liquid that has to be taken with a tablespoon or wineglass. Just breathe it by the aid of an inhaler that comes in every outfit and benefit will be seen from the first treatment.

It destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone. It cures catarrh of the head and throat, or of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Wherever mucous membrane contains catarrhal germs, there Hyomei will do its work of healing. When using this treatment the air you breathe will be found like that on the mountains high above the sea level, where grow balsamic trees and plants which make the air pure by giving off volatile antiseptic fragrance that is healing to the respiratory organs.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks treatment.

Remember that if Hyomei does not cure you, King's Pharmacy or Peoples' Drug Co., will refund your money. This is a good time to cure catarrh by this natural method and prevent catarrhal colds that are so common at this season.

CURES CATARRH
"Hyomei the Most Wonderful Cure for Catarrh Ever Discovered," Says Peoples Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy.

Do not try to cure catarrh by taking drugs into the stomach; it cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this common disease can be cured is through a direct application that will kill the bacilli of catarrh and prevent their growth.

Hyomei is the only known method of treatment that accomplishes this. It is the simplest, most pleasant, and the only absolute cure for catarrh that has ever been discovered.

WHEN A MAN IS NOT A MAN.
A farmer's team stood in front of a grocery, on one of the principle business streets, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A man occupied the seat, but he was so drunk that he could not control himself, and his wife, a buxom woman, divided her time between stowing away the groceries, and preventing her husband from falling out, as she stood by the side of the wagon.

When the purchases were packed away in one side of the box, she called for volunteers, and while she superintended the job, the husband was pulled over the back of the seat and stretched out in the bottom of the box to sleep off his drunken stupor.

She returned to the store, and soon appeared with a little girl, two or three years old, and lifting her to the wagon seat, climbed over the wheel, gathered up the reins and started for home with the load of provisions and the head of the house hold.

A crowd had gathered to watch the proceedings, and to admire the woman who seemed equal to the emergency. As she drove away a man said to his friend,

"Well! what do you think of that? I suppose that woman thought she was marrying a man ten years ago, but she hasn't much to show for it today. What do you suppose she will do with him when she gets him home?" And his friend replied, "Oh, she will love him just the same and go on bearing the double burden."

The sight was pathetic, but it was only one of many of daily occurrence where manhood is sacrificed to appetite. When a man is dizzy with rum, he ceases to be a man, and the wife and home suffers in consequence.

A few days later, on the same street, a young man, in maudlin condition, managed to climb onto an iron railing and was soon sound asleep. Presently he lost his balance and toppled over backwards; but managed to save himself from falling into the area below. A bystander said to him as he regained his feet with unsteady step, "Well my friend, that was a close call, you came near breaking your neck." He muttered something about the Lord taking care of fools and children, and was soon behind the doors of a nearby saloon, calling for another drink. He left home in the morning a man, but before the close of the day he became an incompetent thing not capable of keeping out of danger and careless of results.

A man went to his home at midnight, not long ago, drove his wife and children from the house, took an ax and smashed the furniture, broke the windows, and then laid down to sleep off a drunken debauch while the wife and children sought shelter at the neighbors.

He was a good man at heart, and thought the world of his family; but rum had deadened every sensibility and transformed him into a demon. He went out in the morning a man, and returned at midnight with every semblance of manhood abolished.

These experiences taken from every day observation, are being repeated in all parts of the land, and it is not at all surprising that temperance men and women, with radical views on the subject demand laws, that in their opinion, would remedy will evil.

They argue that if the saloon did not exist drink could not be obtained, and a new temperance era would soon be ushered in. The argument is plausible, but the "if" is the obstruction and will continue to be until moral sentiment removes it.

Law denounces crime, and provides for punishment of the offender, because public sentiment creates and enforces the measure, but law is helpless to regulate morals, and will continue to be, until the standard of public sentiment is much higher than it is today in the average community.

Someone is responsible for the man who loses his identity in drink and that someone is not the saloon keeper. Back in the years of boyhood it is possible to so train the lad and shield him from temptation, so that as he comes to years of accountability he will abhor vice in all its forms, and go out into life clean and wholesome, so far as moral character is concerned.

The home, the church, the Y. M. C. A. the schools and every other good influence, are under sacred obligations to the boys of the land, and when these obligations are intelligently recognized and faithfully met, there will be no demand for laws to regulate moral conduct.

The restrictions placed upon the drink habit by corporations and transportation companies, are a wholesome regulator. It is out of the question for a man who is addicted to drink to find employment, in almost any calling. The law of necessity is an effective regulator for men, but the more subtle law of love and helpful influences is necessary for the boys. The two, working together, will accomplish vastly more than legal restriction.

Drink is not the only thing that deprives men of manhood. There are homes in every community where men are brutal and temperate so far as drink is concerned. They may belong to the church for it has been discovered that this is sometimes a cloak for hypocrisy. The man who meets his wife with a frown, and his children day after day with a word of censure never finding anything to commend, but always on the alert for something to condemn, is not a representative of manhood. He may rule the household with a rod of iron and every thing may bend to his will and dictation. The wife becomes timid, and loses her identity. She obeys the man that she promised to love, but the motive is fear and not affection. The children are relieved when he is out of the house.

This kind of a man is usually a widower before he reaches middle life, and the love of the children centers in the little green mound that covers the form of the mother. He never drank, but because of that fact he had no claim to manhood. No pleasant associations cluster about the memory of the home, and the children think of it as a place where the mother sacrificed, and died before her time.

A young man engages in business with a friend of his father's. He is ambitious, and scrupulously honest for his early training has been along right lines. He depends upon the older man for counsel and advice, and is shocked when he discovers that he has but little regard for the truth, and is so thoroughly absorbed in making money that he does not hesitate to practice methods that are dishonest.

When the boy questions, he is called prudish, and unless he is strong enough to defend his position he becomes a victim to dishonesty. Manhood has been sacrificed to greed and the older man is responsible.

The full measure of manhood is attainable, and while men possess hobbies, and frequently ride them at reckless pace, it is gratifying to know that moral character is in the ascendancy and that a large majority of mankind are neither drunkards nor dishonest.

It is worth something to represent the full stature of a man, and the ranks will increase in proportion to the observance of the unwritten code of moral laws which has for its foundation the golden rule, "do unto others as ye would that they do unto you", and not "as they do to you".

A SAFE INVESTMENT.
The book and eye industry, that was brought to the attention of the Business Men's association by Mr. Mills, president of the company, is worthy of support and substantial encouragement.

Mr. Mills is backed by the best of reference. He is the inventor not only of the device but of the machinery used in manufacture, and his goods are being sold in every state in the union, as well as in many foreign countries. He is asking no bonus to locate in Janesville, but he is in need of more capital and so proposes to sell $25,000 worth of stock at 50c per share, which means an investment of $12,500.

This money he proposes to invest in machinery and locate in Janesville. He already has $32.00 invested and in evidence of good faith he guarantees at the end of a year to take up the Janesville stock and pay 10 per cent on the investment, if the stockholders are not satisfied.

The business will employ from 50 to 100 hands, mostly men. It is a novelty covered by patents and will prove a great money maker. Small factories scattered over the town are more desirable than one large plant. The investment that Mr. Mills offers is safe, and the outlook for large returns very flattering.

The Methodists of Iowa are being regaled by an effusion from Wisconsin's erratic governor. They will be able to shout in several different languages when they discover what a wonderful state they live in. When the governor pays the freight everybody is happy.

LITTLE SUPPORT FOR NEW FACTORY

MR. MILLS IS SURPRISED AT THE PRESENT SITUATION.

HE HAS A GOOD PROPOSITION

Hook and Eye Factory Would Mean Much to Janesville's Business.

Janesville capitalists have not taken the interest in the proposed Hook and Eye company and their location here that satisfies Mr. Victor Mills, the president of the company. In speaking of the prospects of the company locating here Mr. Mills says that he is much disappointed in the amount of stock subscribed thus far. He has hoped for better encouragement from business men and while he has found several who have said they would like to invest a little later, but the present subscription list is not up to what he expected.

Looks at Cotton Mill
Mr. Mills and Dr. Farnsworth drove over the city yesterday and looked at the various sites which are available. Mr. Mills likes the lower cotton mill and thinks that within a few months the work of the factory would fill the whole lower floor. He has with him orders from leading jobbing houses of this country and Europe and even from Peru and other South American countries which he would be glad to show the merchants of Janesville to convince them there is a demand for his goods. The argument has been used by those opposed to the proposition that it was a novelty and not generally known. Among the letters Mr. Mills has are many from the leading Chicago and New York wholesale houses who have not only ordered large supplies but have begun pushing the goods on the market.

Reasons for Moving
In speaking of the reasons for moving from Chicago Mr. Mills says that already the business has outgrown the present quarters and that it is necessary to move to another and larger shop where the company can manufacture enough to keep at least even with the orders. Labor conditions in Chicago are such that the stockholders and board of directors have thought best to look for a location outside of Chicago. La Crosse, Fond du Lac, Appleton, Green Bay, and Oshkosh have all been looked over and propositions have been made by business men in each of these cities for locating the factory there.

Like Janesville
Personally Mr. Mills likes Janesville. It is convenient to Chicago, has excellent factory sites and has better shipping facilities than almost any other city in southern or eastern Wisconsin. It is near Chicago and there the general office of the factory would be located. Aside from the hook and eye factory the directors of the company at their last meeting also decided that a paper box factory would be essential to the shipping facilities and also a magazine for women should be established. If the factory is located in Janesville these two adjuncts will follow and will add to the manufacturing industries of the city.

Returns Monday
Mr. Mills went to Chicago this afternoon but will return on Monday.

JANESVILLE PLOW WINS THE MEDALS

Reliance Plow, Manufactured by the Janesville Machine Works, Victor in Plowing Contest.

Once more the Janesville Machine works of this city has furnished plows that have won the great annual plowing contest at Wheatland, Illinois. The contest was held last Saturday and the only thing that the Reliance plows manufactured by the Janesville company did not get was what they did not go after. Their biggest victory was that of Cyrus L. Stark, who won the sweepstakes match with a Reliance gang plow and also is now holder of the medal and title of champion plowman of the world. Eight premiums in all were taken by the Reliance plow. In the men's case for riding plows all the prizes offered were easily captured. There were thousands of people present at the contest which has become an annual event and one in which entries are solicited from all over the country, the contest being open to the world at large. In men's walking plows the Reliance was first and third in the boys' class on riding plows under 17 years of age and the same for boys under 15. It was a decisive victory for the Janesville company and one which they are justly proud of. There were twenty-three entries for the contests.

ELECT OFFICERS FOR NEW ROAD

Report That Surveyors Have Begun Work Near Madison for Road Here.

At Rockford yesterday the Interurban Electric Railway company, which proposes to build a line from that city to Madison, Wis., was formally organized today, though work on right of way and plans of the line has been under way for some time past and most of the arrangements have been made for capitalizing the line. A meeting of those interested was held and a board of directors chosen, who elected the following officers: President, M. A. Beal, manager Rockford Edison company; vice president, N. P. Thompson, vice president Manufacturers' bank; treasurer, H. N. Starr, Winnebago National bank; secretary, E. H. Keller, of Rockford, Beloit, and Whitewater Fuel and Lumber company. The survey of the line has been made. Work in the spring from here will go to Broadhead, Monroe, and Albany, and thence through to Madison, tapping an excellent country.

Merely a Rumor
There is a rumor going the rounds of the city that a Pennsylvania construction company has a force of surveyors at work running a line for an interurban from Madison to Janesville. It is said that they are working out of Madison. One gentleman talked with a surveyor from southern Illinois whom he knew who is with the party and learned that it was only preliminary work, being done on a contract with a Pennsylvania corporation that build roads all over the country.

His education was finished at that place of art, Genoa, Italy. Mr. De Varville painted a portrait which brought $700 for Mrs. Alexander Kennedy, a well known eastern lady of Johnstown, Pa. He is now at work upon a portrait of the late Lieutenant Governor Stone of Watertown, this state, and is also reproducing a likeness of the late Dr. Sanborn of this city. Mr. De Varville's work is in water color effect in oil which does away with the old fashioned dark hues so disagreeable in many ways. This water color method creates a furor among art lovers. BAD ACCIDENT BARELY AVERTED

HORSE MAKES A DASH UP MILWAUKEE STREET.

DRIVER SHOWS MUCH GRIT

Man Was Hurt While Engaged in Digging in the River Bottom.

Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning a horse attached to one of J. M. Bostwick & Sons' delivery wagons became frightened on East Milwaukee street, near the opera house and becoming uncontrollable ran away, but a worse accident was averted by the animal falling near the corner of the Badger Drug company, throwing the driver to the ground.

A Brave Driver
The accident was witnessed by a number of people who were on the street at the time, and all speak highly of the courage and bravery of young Dan McCarthy who was driving the rig, but who hung on to the lines to the last and tried to hold in the frightened animal, a heavy and powerful horse.

Companion in Rig
A companion was with the boy when the horse started, but he slipped out of the rear of the wagon before they crossed the bridge. At the River street corner, the animal swerved to the left and slipped on the wet pavement while going at a hot pace. The sudden jolt loosened the seat and McCarthy was thrown to the ground and under the wheels, but he hung on pluckily to the lines.

Besides a general shaking up to both driver and horse, no harm was done. It is not known for certain what started the runaway but several people who saw the horse run, say that the boys in the wagon were teasing the animal when on East Milwaukee street.

Foot Cut
Yesterday afternoon Charles Nicholson who was employed at the Janesville Contracting company's new plant at the Ford mill cut his foot with an adz and was obliged to stop work and seek medical aid. In company with several others he was trying to remove the sunken timbers that were under the old flood gates. The work of removing the boards had to be carried on in two feet of water as a hole was being dug in which to place the suction pipe of the big pump.

SYNOPSIS

PART IV.—Two months later another officer at Nampung, while out on a hunt comes across Kiltwater and Codd. Kiltwater explains they were traders who had fallen into hands of Chinese who had put out his own eyes and pulled out Codd's tongue. After recovering somewhat from effects of exposure and tortures they set off in pursuit of Hayle.

After doctoring for eleven months and taking forty-three bottles of medicine and finding no relief for leucorrhea resulting from irritation of a fallen womb I took Wine of Cardui and fourteen bottles cured me. This seems strange but it is the simple truth. Wine of Cardui helped me from the time I began taking it and having heard it praised so highly by friends who had tried it I felt satisfied that it would help me, and it did. It cured me. Took every bit of ache, pain and headache, cramps and dragging down sensations away till I felt young, strong and happy once more. It is a wonderful medicine and a true friend to women. When I took back on the months of torture I had it seems like a hideous nightmare. Wine of Cardui will cure any woman I believe. I have more faith in it than all other medicines combined.

Weakness may go on for years, but it can be cured with a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Write and begin to take it at once. Do think of it. A lady of Kingsley writes about will soon be yours. How Do You Treat Your Feet

If your feet growl sometimes, isn't it because they are dissatisfied with your treatment of them?

You prefer good comfortable surroundings to work in, and so do your feet. They can't work successfully in a misfit harness any more than you can.

This is worth thinking about.

Walk-Over Shoes fit the feet as nicely as a good glove fits the hand—and they look as well. Union made.

Furs! Furs!

WE place our orders for furs very early, have them made for us before the rush, and by buying early we get better skins. Another important thing, when shipments are received we go through the furs carefully and send back every piece that is not as good as bought. Our stock now is very complete. Better Furs for the prices cannot be found. Every year some women for one reason or another have to buy their furs early, and already we have sold quite a number of scarfs.

Our stock consists of several styles of

Scarfs, Boas, Jackets,
Capes, Muffs,
Children's Sets.

Before buying let us figure with you. We can save one much money. It pays to see furs before buying, as furs bought from a catalogue seldom are as good as represented.

Exceptional Values in Jackets, Neaseal and Krimmer.

REPAIR WORK

We figure close on repair work. Come in and talk with us if you have furs that you wish to have repaired or made over.
